MOVIN' ON 2017 EMCEES CHOSEN

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., Jan. 18 – Penn State's Annual Music Festival, Movin' On, has announced its 2017 emcees as Alisa Vasquez and Jason Hu. The pair will be moderating, with style and flair, all of Movin' On's promotional events throughout the year, including the Battle of the Bands competition occurring on March 25th as well as the 2017 festival on April 28th.

One of the 2017 emcees is freshman, Alisa Vasquez, who is studying Broadcast/Sports Journalism from Washingtonville, New York. A long-time fan of Movin' On, Vasquez describes the festival as an extraordinary event where “thousands of students unite while jamming out to talented artists and musicians.” She compares the hype of the event crowds to that of the Penn State football student section knowing that the enthusiasm students and festival goers will add to the overall experience. Vasquez cannot wait to step out on stage alongside her co-host Jason Hu and celebrate Movin' on 2017.

The second emcee for this year's festival is senior Jason Hu from North Wales, Pennsylvania studying Marketing with an International Business minor. When asked what it means to him to be a 2017 emcee, he said, “It is the last big PSU tradition that caps off the year, and it gives me the opportunity to truly be in my element and let loose with friends before having to deal with finals week. I also do not get that many opportunities to experience big music festivals and for Penn State to hold such a successful music event on this scale is an opportunity that I am truly grateful for.” Even though the lineup is under wraps, Hu is excited to add to the energy on stage at the festival alongside the artists and musicians of this year’s festival.

The Movin’ On 2017 emcees have begun working on promotional events, preparing for the annual Battle of the Bands competition to be held this year on March 25th and the festival on Friday, April 28th. Catch them at these events which are free to all Penn State students.
